THE ROYAL WEDDING.

Marriage of Princess Beatrice and Prince Henry—The Event Occurs at Osborne.

How the Bride was Dressed, and how she Behaved—The March from the Palace to the Church.

As already announced in THE TIMES the marriage of the Princess Beatrice, youngest daughter of the Queen, to Prince Henry of Battenburg, took place last Thursday at St. Mildred church, Whippingam, near Osborne in the Isle of Wight, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

THE BRIDAL PROCESSION

started from the palace at 1.15. Enthusiastic shouting and cheering greeted the pageant as it emerged from the gates and the demonstration was taken up and continued by people along the whole route. Bands of music stationed at different points on the route played at intervals. Inside the church demi-toilets were enjoined for ladies, who slept last night on the island. The guests who arrived from London to-day were permitted to appear in morning dress. When all was in readiness the choir, followed by the clergy, passed to the altar to prepare to receive the bride. The Queen left the palace for the church shortly before 1 o'clock. The procession made its entry into the church along a covered way through the church yard. The equeries passed in first, then followed the foreign guests and then the royal family. When the procession entered the edifice the organs played Handel's "Occasional Overture."

ALL THE ROYAL LADIES PRESENT

wore dresses of white gossamer silk. The Prince and Princess of Wales did not join the procession. They both remained at the entrance of the church. Prince Henry, the bridegroom, wore a white uniform and on front of his coat were numerous orders. He passed into the church accompanied by the members of his royal house. The bridesmaids left the vestry in which they had been waiting for the entrance to the church yard to receive the bride. The arrival of was heralded with cheers and a royal salute. The pipers played the march "Highland Laddie," and the Spithead guns thundered a grand salute.

The Queen entered the church on the bride's left. The Prince of Wales was on the right of the bride. The bridesmaids followed. The Princess bowed to the guests on either side as she advanced up the aisle. The scene as the Queen, dressed in black, with lace, and wearing a miniature diamond crown, entered the church was very impressive.

THE BRIDE LOOKED VERY PRETTY.

She was dressed in ivory satin, with honiton lace. Her hair was artistically arranged, and its effect was made more charming by the wreath of orange blossoms she wore. The Princess of Wales wore a costume of white cu de nil.

Prince Henry stood at the south side of the altar and awaited the bride. The Princess walked with a firm step up the aisle while the Wagner Bridal March was played. The Archbishop of Canterbury read the services, the bride and bridegroom responding in clear tones, which were heard throughout the building.

THE QUEEN GAVE THE BRIDE AWAY.

At the close of the service Mendlessohn's Anthem was sung. The Queen, Prince Henry and the relatives on both sides then kissed the bride. As the bridal party left the church, Mendlessohn's Wedding March was played.

The dress which the Princess Beatrice will wear in starting on her bridal trip is of figured China crepe, of a soft cream color, looped up on the left side by long loops with ends of cream moire ribbon. The loops are drawn through buttonholes made in the skirt. She will also wear a dolman of the same material, having two square ends in front trimmed with Irish lace. The bridesmaids' dresses were of embroidered silk muslin over ivory satin, and petticoats of flounces of Mechlin lace, with a design of orange flower buds over a satin corsage trimmed with the same lace.

A POEM OF TWENTY-TWO LINES.

All the morning papers to-day contain a blank verse poem of twenty-two lines by Tennyson, addressed to Princess Beatrice, on her wedding day. The central idea is to compliment her royal highness on not quitting her maternal home, and mingling filial and bridal love. It is a machine-like production, and lacks spontaniety.

A Heavy Seizure Confirmed.

The large seizure of patent medicines, imported by J. C. Ayer & Co., of Lowell, Mass., has been maintained by the Minister of Customs, and unless the fine is paid the consignment will be confiscated. In this case it is claimed that the government has been defrauded out of from $12,000 to $15,000 every year in undervaluation. The goods were entered as liquorice liquor, whereas they were compounded patent medicines all ready for bottling, and instead of being worth $1.40 as invoiced, were in reality valued at $5.50 the gallon.

The following is a list of the firms to whom the medicine was consigned, and in whose possession it was seized:

Kerry, Watson & Co., Montreal	$22,000
Northrop & Lyman, Toronto	49,000
Page, of Halifax	12,000
Winer & Co., Hamilton	11,000
London, (Ont.) Drug Co.	9,800
St. John, N. B.	10,000
Fixtures at St. Johns, Que.	3,000
Total	$108,000

Looking for a Steamer.

Portland News: Captain A. W. Jones and Captain Pryor, both well-known steamboat men of Victoria, have returned from the mouth of the Willamette, whither they went on the Fleetwood, with E. A. Seely and other owners to test the vessel. The first named gentlemen are thinking, it is said, of buying her and transferring her to the northern waters, probably from Victoria to New Westminster, or even to the Queen Charlotte island and Alaska route. Captains Jones and Pryor left the Esmond, where they had been quartered, on their return to Victoria, but will probably arrive here again in a few days.

THE BIG TEA SHIPMENT.

Preparations Making by the Northern Pacific Officials to Handle the Bark Isabel's Big Cargo of Tea.

The Northern Pacific is hurrying all its spare freight cars to Tacoma, in order to be able to handle the cargo of the bark Isabel upon its arrival there. The company has about forty-five empty cars now at Tacoma, and will have as many more there within the next few days. The Isabel is expected the fore part of the week. She is loaded with two thousand tons of tea consigned to St. Paul, Chicago and New York. The consignors are Frazer & Co., the Northern Pacific's agents at Yokohama. It is estimated that the tea will load ten tons to the car, which will necessitate the use of two hundred cars. These will be run in special airbrake trains of twenty cars each, making ten trains in all. It is probable that the trains will double between Helena and Glendive and between Mandan and St. Paul, as the grade between those points will permit of such heavy trains. The trains will be run through as specials, and upon a time card prepared especially for the occasion. The time to be consumed in the trip will be something less than 175 hours. The rate made by the Northern Pacific for this special shipment is $1.75 per hundred, Yokohama to New York. This is much lower than the regular rate. The rate by steamer from Yokohama to New York varies from $3 to $5, according to the season. The season opens about May. The first pickings always command the highest prices, and, consequently, the shipper can afford to pay higher freights than later in the season when the crops are not so good. By sailing vessels the rate is about $2 25, but it also varies. When the Northern Pacific entered the field sailing rates dropped to $1.75. This is a lower rate than was ever quoted at this season of the year. Though this is an exceedingly low rate, the revenue received by the vessel and the railroad companies making the rail hauls will be sufficient to warrant them continuing it should competition make this the regular rate. The Isabel, upon her arrival at Tacoma, will immediately discharge her cargo, and then sail with lumber from the Puget Sound country, for Liverpool. From that port she will take merchandise, or else return in ballast to Liverpool. This is the first tea shipment undertaken by the Northern Pacific, and if the experiment proves a success, and there is every indication that it will, a regular line of sailboats between Tacoma and Yokohama will be established. When the trade has been built up to such proportions as will justify it, the Northern Pacific company will put on a line of steamers.

Barkerville Gleanings.—Our Visitors.

Two young ladies of Quesnelle mouth, Miss Alice Northcote, school teacher and Miss Bell Barlow, manipulator of lightning and post office manager of that town arrived in Barkerville Tuesday afternoon to spend a week holidaying. These young ladies, apparently not fatigued, accomplished the journey of upwards of sixty miles on horseback, within about twenty-three hours including all stoppages. The vivacious Miss Barlow, who is well known in Barkerville, is always a welcome visitor. This is the second visit of Miss Northcote, who also favored Barkerville at the Christmas holidays. We have frequently noticed reference made to the hesitancy and aversion with which lady teachers of this province accept positions in the rural districts. Miss Northcote came to British Columbia about one year ago, and has since enjoyed one of the best salaries; lived in one of the prettiest locations, and among perhaps the most appreciative people in the Province. We have no doubt but there are many other outlying districts where young ladies of spirit, affability and energy might spend an equally pleasant and agreeable time, and be idolized, as we believe the Quesnelle teacher is.

The Lord Mayor of B. and an attendant went forth and escorted in our visitors, and we are informed extended them the freedom of the city. Miss Barlow and Miss Northcote are the guests of Mrs. Bowron.

The following companies have started to "clean up" and the indications are that they will pay well: the Flume, (Nason) China, Kendalt, Hardy, Reed, Eye Opener, Aurora, and the Forest Rose companies. These are all on Williams creek. On Mosquito creek, the Alabama, Flynn, and the Butts companies. On Hardscrabble creek, claims doing well. On Sugar creek, considerable money had been taken out. On Antler creek, Nason Co. got down and are getting good prospects. Whisky Flat Co. are making money. On Grouse creek, the Waverly Co. is doing well. On Harvey creek, Metropolitan Co. is doing well with good prospects ahead.

Mason & Daley brought up 148 head of beef cattle and sent them on the mountain. They also got up 50 hogs and 200 head of sheep.

PICNICING.

On the 11th, through the kindness of Mr. Mason, a wagon load, 20 in all, of the children of Barkerville spent a very pleasant day by Jack o' Club's Lake, fishing, boating, swinging, gathering strawberries, &c. The day was delightful and all had a good time. Whether it be the making or improvising of skates and sleds in the winter season, or the providing of horses and rigs in summer, Mr. Mason is always on hand in his jovial way, making everything pleasant for everybody, since his return to Richfield. He is now ably assisted in all his kindnesses by Mrs. Mason. We understand a grand general picnic and mountain excursion is now on the tapis, to come off next week.

ACCIDENT.

We are sorry to record another accident, which took place in the Forrest Rose. Mr. Jas. Innis had a leg broken by a clump of clay rolling on him. With a well-preserved, robust constitution and careful medical attendance, we expect to see Mr. Innes soon round again.

DIFFUSING THE LIGHT.

Although of comparatively recent growth, we are pleased to see THE TIMES coming to the fore in this vicinity, and more than holding its own among its long established contemporaries. A philanthropic citizen is establishing a bulletin board which promises to rival in fame your Campbell's corner. That's correct, Captain, diffuse the light.

Alaska Appointments.

The President has made the following appointments for Alaska: Edward J. Dawne, of Oregon, to be U. S. Judge; M. D. Ball, of Alaska, U. S. Attorney; Barton Atkins, of New York, U. S. Marshal. The statement recently made that Gov. Kincaid, having suffered a stroke of paralysis, was lying at the point of death, is said to be untrue.

Memorial Services in London.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 25.—A number of American gentleman assembled this morning at the residence of Mr. Phelps, American Minister, to arrange for a memorial service in London on the day of the burial in New York of General Grant. Cyrus W. Field proposed a resolution to appoint a committee to wait upon the Dean of Westminster and make suitable arrangements with him for a commemorative service in Westminster Abbey on the 8th Aug. the day of interring the body of the General in the Central Park. Joseph R. Hawley, of Connecticut, seconded the resolution which was adopted by a unanimous vote and a committee was at once appointed. It consists of Mr. Phelps, who is chairman, Mr. Hawley, Mr. Field, Senator Eustis, of Louisiana, Geo. W. Smalley, Manton Marbie, B. H. Brewster, ex-Attorney-General, J. S. Morgan, J. T. Lord, Thos. M. Waller, American Consul, General Howard Potter and Dr. Harwood, of New Haven. A sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Phelps, Field and Smalley, was subsequently chosen to see the Dean and arrange to visit him. During the evening the sub-committee saw the Dean, who readily granted them the use of the Abbey for the desired services.

Gen. Grant's Widow—Pall Bearers to be Named by the President.

Special to THE TIMES.

MT. MCGREGOR July 25.—This morning everything is peaceful on the mountains. Hundreds of visitors are coming up on the trains. A Sabbath-like silence prevails. Since the death of the General, Mrs. Grant has been seen by no one except the immediate members of her family and Mrs. Dr. Newman. Yesterday afternoon, it was rumored, she was so utterly prostrated that serious results might be feared, but it is now known that, although the widow suffers greatly, yet she bears up bravely, and no serious results are anticipated.

President Cleveland was this morning requested to name the pall bearers to act at the closing obsequies. He will attend to the matter.

General Hancock telegraphed this morning to the Mountain station that he had received instructions of the Secretary of War and that the details of the military pageant would be attended to as here ordered. The subject of the spot for the sepulchre in Central Park is now to be settled. The authorities in New York city will doubtless exercise discretion in this matter, though Colonel Fred Grant has signified a feeling that the location at the North end of the mall, near the lake would be nearest to meet the wishes of the family. Either one end or the other or the mall will undoubted be chosen.

A message was this morning sent to Mayor Grace, asking if he could and would furnish a temporary vault for the reception of the remains of Gen. Grant, a suggestion being made that the family would prefer that the remains should not be placed in any vault that has already been used for the reception of others. One month ago to-day Gen. Grant received his last retired pay check from Washington and had he lived till to-day another would have been at his disposal.

Gen. Horace Porter will arrive here to-day, and Potter Palmer and family of Chicago will reach here Monday.

Dissatisfaction at New York Being Selected.

Special to THE TIMES.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Continued expressions of disapproval and disappointment at the selection of New York as the burial place of General Grant are heard from officials in every grade, and from citizens generally in Washington. Said one of the most prominent officials in the new administration to-day, the burial of Gen. Grant at New York, with the ceremonies preceding it, will make it more of a state than a national affair. His body ought to lie in state in Albany and in New York City. It ought to be placed in state in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, and then be buried here beside the soldiers who fought with him. Under present arrangements the army can do nothing more than it would do should it be called on to assist in the burial of any other prominent General. Citizens express sentiments similar to the above. They admit, however, that if it were the wish of Gen. Grant or of his family to have a decided preference that the burial should take place in New York further controversy is precluded. The selection of Central Park as the place of burial, rather than other public reservations in New York, is also specially criticised here, and the suggestion is made that the centre of Union Square, for instance, would be a more fitting place for the interment of the dead hero's remains and the erection of a noble monument to commemorate the nation's gratitude

A general order, in the name of Gen. Sheridan, has to-day been issued to Gen. Hancock directing him to take charge of the military ceremonies connected with the funeral. A further order giving directions as to details will be issued early next week.

Cincinnati and Grant's Funeral Day

Special to THE TIMES.

CINCINNATI, O., July 25.—All the civic, military, political and other organizations in the city have united in providing for a suitable observance of the day of Gen. Grant's funeral. Beyond determining that a meeting shall be held in the Music hall the programme is still incomplete.

The Oxford Crew Crosses the Channel.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 25.—The Oxford crew started from Dover at 15 minutes after ten o'clock this morning to row across the channel to Calais. The weather at the time of starting was fine, and there was a dead calm. The crew expected to reach Calais at two o'clock in the afternoon. A great crowd of persons witnessed the starting of the boat. At 30 minutes after ten the boat was one mile out, but at 10:45 o'clock it was making slow progress as the tide was causing it to drift eastward. A dispatch was received from Calais at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon saying that the boat had been sighted from there.

BANQUET TO EARL SPENCER.

30,000 Fenians in Ireland Aided by Members of Parliament.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 25.—A banquet was given last evening to Earl Spencer, late Lord Lieut. of Ireland. Two hundred members of the House of Commons were present. The Marquis of Hartington presided. He proposed the health of Earl Spencer in an eulogistic speech, in the course of which he commended the Earl's administration of the office of Vice Royal. Earl Spencer, replying, said he had tried to do his duty to his sovereign and his country fearlessly. He said that the Crimes Act was justified, when passed, by the presence in Ireland of thirty thousand Fenians, who were aided by members of Parliament from England and Scotland, and by funds from America, in resisting the laws of the land. John Bright, in proposing the health of the chairman, vindicated Earl Spencer's policy. He said men who brought charges against Earl Spencer and the Irish judges were disloyal to the Crown and directly hostile to Great Britain. They had, so far as they could, obstructed legislation, which was intended to prevent or discover and punish crime.

Another Treasurer Disappears.

Special to THE TIMES.

CHICAGO, July 25.—The statement is published that William Starr, treasurer of the Bricklayers' and Stone Masons' Union, is missing, and that he is short in his accounts some $5000. Starr was re-elected two weeks ago, and was looked upon as a man of strict integrity. The funds taken leaves the treasury of the association completely empty.

MOSCOW, July 25.—During last night eight incendiaries set fire to a number of houses in Klin, a town fifty miles from this city and property valued at 500,000 roubles was destroyed.

The Government Defeated.

LONDON, July 23.—The government was defeated in the House of Commons this evening by 180 to 130 on a clause of the medical relief bill. The Parnellites opposed the Government.

El Mahdi's Death.

LONDON, July 23.—It is stated that the government has received confirmation of the report of the death of El Mahdi of smallpox on June 29th.

Ho! for Big Bend.

A party is organizing at Kamloops, says the Sentinel, consisting of Messrs. John Duff, Frank Harvey, John Campbell, etc., for the Big Bend mining region, to go by the way of Seymour, the head of navigation, and cross the mountains some 65 miles to the camping ground. In early days there was a tolerably good trail by that route; but from Mr. McCollough and others we learn that it presents some difficulties from fallen trees, underbrush, etc. We trust the party will get through with their pack train and report favorably of the prospect of getting in supplies by the way of Seymour.

Madison Square Company.

The event of the theatrical season, thus far at all events, in Victoria, will be the appearance of the Madison Square Company on Monday evening at Philharmonic Hall. The engagement is limited to four nights only. For the first night many of the seats are already taken, and those who intend being present should secure seats early on Monday. "The Private Secretary" is one of the most powerful plays put upon the boards.

A Diminutive Trunk.

A cabby was sent the other day to the Oriental with a written order for a camphor-wood box, and was directed by the smiling genii who preside behind the counter to where it was to be found upstairs. In a few minutes he returned with a small pill box in his hand and innocently asked if that was not the trunk he was in search of? And then the aforesaid genii exploded with merriment.

Stoppage of Track Laying.

No progress has been made on track laying on the Onderdonk section for a week, for want of rails. Ties have been distributed for miles to the east of the end of track and when rails arrive, it is believed the iron will be laid at the rate of three miles per day. There are plenty of rails at Port Moody.

Clerical Changes.

Rev. T. H. Gilbert, has resigned his mission at Chilliwhack, and leaves at the end of September. Rev. Chas. Blanchard has obtained a year's leave of absence, and left for England on the 15th. Rev. G. Ditcham will also go to England on leave, and his Granville charge will be supplied by Rev. H. G. Fiennes-Clinton, who is expected from England shortly.

Theater Comique.

A small but sympathetic audience assembled at the Theater Comique last night. The programme was a varied one. The remarkable and highly amusing mesmeric performances at the close were loudly applauded.

To Begin Operation at the Terminus.

The real cause for delay in commencing the terminal operations by the C. P. R. company, and surveying the line to Coal Harbor and English Bay is now asserted to be the desire on the part of the management to await the fate of the relief bill in its passage through the House of Commons and the Senate, for in the upper house it was known that the government scheme would be bitterly assailed by several of the opposition senators and others, who had invested largely in Port Moody property. Several amendments were proposed but they were lost by large majorities. On the 17th the motion of Sir Alexander Campbell passed by a vote of 27 to 12.

The following telegram was received by Mayor Dickinson of New Westminster, on Wednesday last.

"OTTAWA, July 22.

Base your calculations upon my first telegram. Cambie will make the survey. I leave to-day for B.C. J. A. R. HOWER."

Memorial Services.

The committee appointed to perfect arrangements for a memorial service for the late Gen. Grant have accepted the offer of Bishop Hill of the use of Christ Church Cathedral. Service will be held on Tuesday next, at 4 p. m., when the Cathedral will be draped in mourning. Prof. Flerdner will have charge of the music, and Bishop Paddock will preach a sermon suitable to the occasion. All American citizens and Victorians generally are invited to be present.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS.

The present English Parliament will be dissolved during the approaching autumn and the elections will take place some time in November. Already the party managers are arranging candidates for the several constituencies throughout the United Kingdom and Ireland. According to the redistribution act, it appears that the total number of candidates who have already offered themselves, or been chosen by the various party associations, is 975, of whom 795 have appeared in England, 48 in Wales and 132 in Scotland; 420 Liberals and 375 Conservatives appear in England, 30 Liberals and 18 Conservatives in Wales, and 94 Liberals and 38 Conservatives in Scotland. Of the 443 constituencies into which England is to be divided, 295 are provided with candidates of both parties, 84 with Liberals only, 54 with Conservatives only, and 10 are unprovided with either. Of the 29 Welsh constituencies, 18 have candidates of both parties, 9 have Liberals only, and 2 are unprovided with either; while of the 71 in Scotland 33 have cannidates of both parties, 31 Liberals only, 6 Conservatives only, and 1 neither. Four hundred and four members of the present House seek election to the new Parliament for constituencies in Great Britain; 117 Liberals and 33 Conservatives ask re-election for the seats they now hold, such seats being unaffected by the Redistribution Act; 93 Liberal and 105 Conservative members for their present seats as remodelled by that Act, and 36 Liberal and 20 Conservative members for constituencies altogether unconnected with those for which they now sit, there thus being 246 Liberal and 158 Conservative members known to be seeking re-election. Three of the present members are put forward in more than one constituency—MR. GLADSTONE, (Midlothian and Shipley), LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL (Central Birmingham and North Paddington), and MR. BRADLAUGH (Northampton and East Finsbury.) Twenty-four of the Liberal and six of the Conservative candidates in England are distinguished as "labor" candidates, and nine of those in Scotland as "crofter."

THE COLONIZATION POLICY.

The provincial government is said to be in communication with a gentleman who represents a number of Icelanders, with the view of having them locate in British Columbia. This people are said to be a hardy, industrious and intelligent race, and in time become excellent citizens. It is only a question of a few years until the hyperborean island of Iceland, is entirely depopulated, as its lava beds and glacial fields have about petered out as a food producing region. There are hundreds of valleys on the mainland and Island, where colonies could be placed, and Icelanders will thrive almost anywhere so long as they have access to a good fishing ground. But would it not be a better policy if our government would take some action towards retaining the thousands of eastern Canadians who annually visit the Province in search of homes, and find them not? The government, above everything else, want a comprehensive and liberal colonization policy in connection with their immigration efforts. As things are now conducted, public money, in many instances, is uselessly squandered in this department of the service.

GEN. GRANT died at 8.08, at Mount McGregor, New York State. The Portland Oregonian anticipating the event held back its forms till the last moment. Just as the press was starting the news of the death arrived, and at 6 o'clock by Portland time, the Oregonian, containing a long account of the General's life and many incidents connected with his eventful career, was being delivered to its subscribers and sold on the streets. The feat, beyond question, was a great journalistic one, and reflects credit on the enterprise of our Portland contemporary.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

[While the columns of THE TIMES are open for the discussion of questions of public interest, to correspondents, it must be understood that it does not necessarily endorse, nor coincide with, the sentiments expressed by writers in this column.]

The Colonist on the Renewal of First-class Certificates.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR:—The Colonist's editorial upon the renewal of first-class certificates is very detrimental to the party whose organ it is. After feigning holy horror at the bare idea of such an honorable man as the Provincial Secretary being influenced by personal feelings, and pointing out that even if such a thing were possible, the power to gratify a feeling of spite does not rest with him, it proceeds to threaten that those who are inclined to differ from this honorable gentleman will be compelled to take a back seat, if they venture to give expression to their opinions. In plain language this means that any public servant, however competent he may be, must support this righteous and honorable gentleman in all he says or does, or have the means of obtaining a livelihood taken from him. Not only does the Colonist threaten that these pains and penalties shall be awarded to whoever does not fall down and worship this haughty autocrat, but it has the assurance to boast that those who have heretofore offended in a similar manner have been compelled to take a "back seat." This is known to be true, much to the discredit of the other members of the government, who seem to allow themselves to be overshadowed by this pillar of righteousness. This holy inbriguer has been so intent upon the contemplation of his own greatness, that he seems, for a time, to have been unaware of the change of feeling that has taken place. Aroused, however, at last, by no doubtful indications, to the conviction that his re-election for New Westminster District is highly improbable, he has been gently feeling the pulse of other constituencies; but finding no encouragement he will be compelled to cringe to the electors of New Westminster District in hopes that as he cannot find an opening elsewhere, they will again take pity on him. This is not the first time that a member of this government has acknowledge that the different departments are managed with a view to their own interests. Of course, the Colonist, when it has received sufficient chastisement, will be down on its knees, and with eyes turned upwards, will express its sorrow for the mischief it has done, and declare that the article referred to was not inspired by its official friend; but the paper that makes a practice of inserting indecent advertisements, and after having pocketed the rewards, feigns repentance, is not likely to be believed by the public.

NEW WESTMINSTER.

July 23, 1885.

Mr. Onderdonk's Statements in Montreal Criticised.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES.

SIR:—The reported interview of Mr. Onderdonk by the representative of the Herald of Montreal is causing some surprise and comment here. The wonder is, where are the 1500 and 2000 feet cliffs overhanging the river where men had to hang with ropes to make the roadway that Mr. Onderdonk is stuffing the Herald with. Cliffs answering that description do not exist between Yale and Lytton. The fact is, that after the surveyors put the road into the hands of the contractor, the construction—though a stupendous undertaking—was a straightforward piece of work, not exceptionally dangerous to any person when carefully and prudently managed. Although Mr. Onderdonk tells the Herald that there has been but little loss of life, the impression of those who live on the line of the work is that there has been a great deal of life lost on the C. P. R. construction in British Columbia, but the difference between a great deal and a very little is not known to the public, as no returns of disasters on the C. P. R. have been published. Through the supineness, indifference or parsimony of the provincial government, no inquests have been held on the killed. No blame is officially or publicly attached to any one, though the public have their own opinion. The contractor attributes his accomplishment of the work to the aid of Chinamen; but he has taken the full time allowed to complete the work—and apparently has the road yet in hand. Now it is quite certain that when there was any difficult or dangerous work to do, the contractor did not depend on the Chinamen to do it, for then white men, and white men only, were required. But the true inwardness of the contractors' partiality for Chinese is that the mass of Chinese railroad laborers are little better than slaves; they are hired out to the contractor by the boss Chinese merchant, who deals in Chinese humanity. Between the boss and the contractor there is a big speculation in commission and supplies, at the expense of the wretched creatures imported into the country, not so much for the work they do, or are expected to do, as for the profit they give to the boss and the contractor. TRADE between Canada and the United States, says the Boston Herald, ought to be as free as trade between New York State and Massachusetts. The natural market of Canada is this country, both for buying and for selling, and if the articial obstacles that now restrain trade relations were removed an enormous increase in international trade would take place, greatly to the advantage of both participants in it. That such a condition of affairs has been so long delayed reflects much more creditably upon our bigoted notions of patriotism than upon our good sense.

THE Colonist, although it has had many days to do so, makes no reasonable reply or excuse on behalf of the government—the way they have managed the statutes and delayed the issuing of them to suit the pocket of one of their own number. The "missing link" has doubtless arrived again, but the three months unnecessary delay, dating from the time of the closing of the session, still remains.

MR. C. CAMPBELL, florist, Victoria square, Montreal, received a cablegram from SIR DAVID MACPHERSON, asking, on behalf of his daughter, who was engaged to be married to the late Lieut.-Col. Williams, that he should send a memorial wreath of flowers to be deposited on the coffin of the gallant soldier. MR. CAMPBELL accordingly prepared and farwarded a beautiful cross of eucrics, stephenois, white roses and forget-me-nots.

DIAMOND EARRINGS.

[Kate Cleary in Chicago Tribune.]

There they were, to be sure! sparkling like twin stars, as enveloped in seal she tripped down the steps and turned her head a moment in passing by. Mrs. Mayrell dropped the Holland window shade from behind which she had been reconnoitering, and turned away with a groan. To live in the basement "flat" was bad enough. To have tapestry Brussels carpets when Mrs. Kinsley had moquet was worse; but to have only coral earrings now when the tenant of the floor above displayed diamonds was the latest and most cruel blow of fate.

A latch-key turned in the street door. There was a step in the passage without. Will's cheery voice rang out, "Dora, dear!"

And then in a minute—"Way, what's up! Are you ill?"

For the wife of a year lifted her head from the sofa-cushion and turned toward him a pair of suspiciously red eyes.

"No-o!" gulping down the sob that would rise; "But—b-ut she's got them!"

Poor, big, good-natured, mystified Will just stood and stared.

"I saw them!"

"You did, eh!"

"Ye-yes!"

"Aged now," deliberately, "will you be good enough to tell me who is 'she,' and what has she 'got?'"

Dora swallowed another invisible pill as she rose.

"I mean Mrs. Kinsley. She has got diamond ear-rings."

Will burst into a boyish laugh; then, seeing it was a very serious matter with his wife, sympathetically sobered up.

"Come, now, Dora. Be sensible, like a good little girl. You don't mean to say you'd cry for a pair of earrings!"

Mrs. Mayrell's pretty olive face bright and not at all at the pleasant raillery.

"Much good will it do me!" she declared sullenly, and intently regardful of the toe of her slipper. Will, edged over to the sofa, sat down beside her, stole an arm around her.

"Dora!"

"Well!"

"You don't look half so pretty when you're cross."

Silence.

Will began to ask himself if he hadn't made a tremendous mistake about twelve months ago. Then he banished the thought as disloyal. She was a little selfish, perhaps; vain, at times discontented, but he loved her very dearly, and no other girl would have suited him half so well.

"Dora, pet," he said, gravely, "you'd have diamonds if I could give them to you, indeed you would, dear. But you know I've got to figure pretty closely to make ends meet now that hard times are upon us. You know that?"

She nodded.

But when half an hour later he went back to the office he left behind him a still very dejected little lady.

He was not quite so gay as usual that afternoon. He didn't joke so audaciously with the boys nor break now and then into a lilting whistle. The man who had the desk next his observed the change.

"What's the racket, Mayrell?"

Will started.

"O, nothing!" and he laughed and shrugged his shoulders.

"That's a lie," returned Andrews with calm directness, and the familiarity born of long friendship. "Out with it!"

Will turned to him.

"You've helped me out of a good many tight places I admit, but you can't do it this time."

Andrews, a sandy-haired and chubby faced little Scotchman, cocked his head on one side like an inquisitive sparrow. "Maybe not, but try me."

Will laughed with an air of embarassment.

"It seems a foolish thing to worry so about," apologetically. "Well, as you must know, here's the case in a nutshell. Dora wants diamond earrings, and I could quite as easily purchase for her the World's fair with the Great Eastern thrown in. Now you know."

Andrews rubbed his chin and nodded.

"Yes, I know," dryly. "I know women, at least I know one woman, and I guess they are all pretty much alike. I'm engaged."

"No!" cried Will.

"Fact. Got to get rich first. Domestic happiness indefinitely postponed. Just bought the ring," fumbling in his vest pocket. "You may look at it and get an idea for your wife's solitaires."

"Don't joke, Dan. I'm a little sore on the subject of my poverty."

"I am not joking," replied Dan, snapping a spring with his finger; "what do you think of that?" And he handed him a little blue velvet case. Will's eyes widened.

"Phew!" how did you manage on $75 a month! It's a beauty."

Andrews chuckled.

"You like it?"

"I should say so. How would stones like that do for earrings?"

"O, let up, Dan. Where's the use of talking about it! That's a carat, isn't it?"

"Right you are. But you can get the same if you wish."

"O; some installment scheme, I suppose."

Andrews restored the ring to its case and the case to his pocket.

"Not exactly."

And he forthwith proceeded to explain.

That night Mayrell said to his wife:

"I'll try and manage it, Dot."

"What! Not the earrings?"

"Yes."

"O, you darling!"

And the very next day he brought them up.

Didn't they sparkle on their bed of snowy velvet, though! And weren't they beauties! Actually larger than Mrs. Kinsley's, too.

"I'm glad you like them, Dora."

"Like them!"

And her eyes were brighter than the gems.

And maybe she didn't rejoice in them and keep them wrapped in chamois skin when not in use. And perhaps she didn't return Mrs. Kinsley's visit. If you think she wore a poke bonnet or a veil you're mistaken.

And for one whole month home was a paradise of serenity for Will Mayrell. But one day, going out in a hurry, Dora hastily put in her earrings. She could not have fastened them securely, for on her return she found herself minus one.

Of her grief, distraction, who could write? Straightway down-town went she and advertised in all the dailies. But she did not give her real name and address. She must not let Will know till it had been recovered. He would feel so badly about it. No-no, she would conceal the fact of her loss from him till she could tell him of her repossession in the same breath. She offered $15 reward, and came home fagged out and heartsick. But day by day passed and never a word came of the missing jewel. She staid at the house altogether now. She had no heart for shopping or calls.

Her hope of ever recovering her precious earring grew fainter daily. She could not bear to look at the poor lonely one laid so carefully away.

Going out to the theatre with Will one evening he said suddenly:

"Why, Dora, you haven't got your earrings in. Are you tired of them already?"

"O no!" she exclaimed, with a feverish laugh, "but I can't wait for them. Come, I do hate to be late."

And Will, having read the oft-repeated advertisements and noticing the unadorned pink ears, had come to his own conclusion. But he only smiled and was silent—except for this one reference to divert suspicion—like the wise fellow he was. And when two weeks had passed and doubt had begun to settle into despair little Mrs. Mayrell began to wonder if she could by any economical strain replace the lost trinket unknown to Will. She might have managed it if they had not been such brilliant stones, and so large, too. They must be worth an enormous sum! How Will had managed to get them in the first place rather puzzled and frightened her when she let herself think of it, but then Will always did things on a grand scale when he made gifts at all.

They must be worth $300 at least. Several had valued them at that—none at less. She would take the one in her dressing-case down to Mackin, the chief jeweler, tell him of her loss, and learn from him the lowest sum at which it could be replaced.

And this the very next day she did.

Mr. Mackin examined the earring as she falteringly inquired what one exactly like it would be worth. "Two fifty, madam."

Ah, even more than she thought!

"Two hundred and fifty! That is a great deal!" she murmured.

He looked at her blankly. "Two dollars and fifty cents, madam. We don't keep such stones, but we can have your missing earring replaced for that sum."

And then observing her pallor and divining the truth, he kindly and politely turned his back on her.

Over the scene which followed at home turn low the lights, ring down the curtain.

* * * * * * * *

But raise it again for a moment!

It it two weeks since Mrs. Will Mayrell met her husband with a face which told him his scheme had found him out.

He comes in now and hands her a paper, pointing out a paragraph as he did so, and this is what she reads:

NEW YORK.—(Special to The Tribune.)—George Kinsley, of Chicago, who arrived in this city yesterday, was to-day arrested for embezzlement as he was about to board the steamship Servia. His books show a deficit of $9,000, taken, as is credibly asserted, to gratify his wife's extravagant demands. He managed to avoid suspicion up to the day of leaving. He swallowed strychnine and died within the hour.

With a very white face Dora laid down the paper. Will took her in his arms. "Darling," he said quietly, "that was the only other course left open to me."

"O, Will!"

"You forgive me now, dear?"

She was shaking from head to foot. She began to cry softly.

"Not that, Will. You forgive me. I didn't know—I didn't think—"

He kissed her tenderly.

"Of course not, sweetheart. But we can do without diamonds better than without honor or each other, can't we?"

"Yes, yes!" she cried, and clung to him. But the tears had washed away the old selfishness and envy, and with her smile of love began a grander, fairer womanhood.

The "Query Column."

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

It was once the fashion for newspapers—especially weekly papers—to have an inquiry column, in which correspondents were gravely informed that Napoleon Bonaparte was born in Corsica; that gunpowder was invented about 1320; that there was no well-authenticated instance of a man walking on three legs. But the fashion fell into desuetude many years ago. Space became too valuable to be devoted to gratifying the curiosity or completing the education of single individuals. An inquiry column, moreover, to be really valuable, involved the services of too many high-price writers to be a judicious feature in a well-conducted newspaper.

To answer miscellaneous queries correctly half a dozen professional man would not be too many. Mischief might be done by blundering answers. Hence, one by one, the papers which used to have a standing heading of "Answers to Correspondents" dropped it out, and there is no chance of its being revived. Papers nowadays furnish their readers with such information as they deem best suited to the largest number. Seekers after special facts will find them in works devoted to that order of facts. We can say to them as Dr. Abernethy said to the man who wanted to get a deadhead opinion out of him: "In your case, if I were you, I would consult a doctor!"

The Colored Department.

[Ben: Perley Poore's Exposition Letter.]

It is a significant fact that the first attempt made to bring together specimens of the work and ingenuity of colored men and women is in a state where slavery existed twenty years since. Every state, with the exception of Maine and Oregon, has sent specimens of the hand and brain work of its colored citizens, agricultural, mechanical artistic and inventive. Virginia sends a collection of twenty photographs; Georgia carriages, Mississippi cotton, Tennessee cereals, Massachusetts models of new inventions, and from every state cleverly executed drawings and sketches. It is evident, however, that nearly all of the work is imitated and there is but little evidence of originality.

Collection of Woods.

[Chicago Herald.]

A complete collection of the native woods of the United States is being prepared for the New York Museum of Natural History. It will comprise thirty-six varieties of oak, thirty-four of pine, nine of fir, five of spruce, four of hemlock, twelve of ash, three of hickory, eighteen of willow, three of cherry, nine of poplar, four of maple, two of persimmon and three of cedar. Each specimen will display both longitudinal and transverse grainings of the wood, as well as the log in its natural condition, with the bark attached.

China, it is said, will reorganize her military system, as Japan has already done.

SURGICAL EXPLOITS.

SUCCESSES GIVEN TO THE WORLD; FAILURES SUPPRESSED.

An Arm With a Canine Annex—What Is Done in the Amphitheatres of the Medical Schools—Theories Tested.

[New York Cor. Chicago Journal.]

You have already read about the curiously successful surgery which a girl of this city underwent. Having lost a section of the principal muscle from one arm, and being thus incapacitated for work, the surgeons of Bellevue hospital inserted the lacking material from a Newfoundland dog, patched up the wound, made it heal, and finally restored the arm to usefulness. The girl was under ether while the operation was going on, and a knowledge of its nature was kept from her until a cure was complete. Then the particulars were given to the reporters, and she got the news simultaneously with the rest of the public.

"You ask me what is or what may be the effect on the imagination of the girl?" said the surgeon with whom I talked. "Well, she happens to possess strong nerves and general good health. She seemed a little shocked on learning that there was a canine annex to her arm, and she was anxious right off, to know what sort of a dog had contributed the material. He had been killed immediately after the operation, because it would have left him badly maimed. She said she was sorry for that, as she would like to have had him to keep. She was delighted to be told that he was a fine specimen of his good-natured, intelligent breed; and she said she'd never, never have forgiven us if we had used a Spitz, or a bulldog, or any ugly brute. A fashionable pug might have pleased her, yet on the whole she thought she would have chosen a New Foundland if the selection had been left to her.

"'She is a laundry girl, and probably not given to the consideration of fine mental or physiological theories, and so it is left to you professional writers to speculate on the effects of the amalgamation. There are persons so finicky that, every time they coupled after a piece of dog had been engrafted into them, they would imagine that they were barking; and death by imaginary hydrophobia would be a possibility, but in this case I don't anticipate any trouble of that sort."

If Annie Pennell had died from the failure of the dog's flesh to heal with her own, no mention would ever have been made in print of the dangerous experiment. Only the surgical successes are given to the world, the failures are suppressed. Nothing was known by the newspapers of this case until two weeks after the operation when the arm was restored to its original value. That very many exploits in surgery come to deadly ends cannot be doubted. They are performed in the center of a small amphitheatre, where the students of one or another of the medical schools meet on appointed days to be practically instructed; and the surgeons lecture explanatorily as they work, telling what they are doing and the expected results.

"If there is a success," says a student to me, "the patient is usually exhibited to us again, to the glory of the operator; but many and many a case is never seen or mentioned in a clinic again afterward, and the supposition is that deformity or death has been caused. The subjects are usually poor persons—gratis patients in the hospitals—and the surgery on them is largely in the nature of vivisection. That is, they are made to stand the risk of experiments which may and may not turn out well.

"If Gen. Grant had been an unknown patient in a public hospital, there would have been a knife in his throat ere this; and he might have gained by it, too; but surgical experiments, mind you, are not tried on illustrious persons. Naturally, the surgeon makes his novel and perilous feats under circumstances which will hide his failure. I am not blaming him, either; and it is a fact that about all of the progress in both medicine and surgery is achieved through tests of theories in the hospitals. The subjects are usually in a hopeless condition; they do not dread the ordeal, for its nature is not fully explained to them; and often they are restored to health, besides contributing to the stock of science."

The Conceit of Cooks.

[Exchange.]

The most precious sauce, for a young cook, is impudence. Roast away and never be tired of it. A modest cook must be looked on as a contradiction in nature. If he be quiet and modest, he will be held as a pitiful cook.

It is related of a famous cook that he prepared fish so exquisitely that they returned him admiring and grateful looks from the frying pan.

It was doubtless the same cook who declared that he had discovered the principle of immortality, and that the odor of his dishes would recall life into the nostrils of the very dead.

It was Bechamel who said that, with the sauce he had invented, a man would experience nothing but delight in eating his own grandfather.

Taffy for Domestic Use.

[Chicago Tribune.]

A Paris correspondent gives one bit of information which is of value in the family circle. It appears that French equivalents for "ducky," or "ownest," or "toodledums" are "chou cheri," which means "darling cabbage," and "mon petit lapin bleu," in English, "my little blue rabbit. It will be observed that French taste and ingenuity have failed in devising anything better in the way of verbal taffy for domestic uses than the English language affords. One of the crying needs of the age is a collection of fascinating pet terms to accompany the 2 a. m. box of propitiatory fried oysters.

Canoeing as an Exercise.

[Philadelphia Bulletin.]

Canoeing promises to be a favorite pastime this season among young men who are found of athletic exercise. It is a capital form of recreation. Paddling develops both sides of the body, strengthens the chest and hardens all the muscles. It is, too, a much more social manner of getting over the water than rowing. You face the prow, see the view ahead instead of behind you, and have none of that machine-like forward and back motion which rowing involves.

Match-Making Revolutionized.

[Exchange.]

Two Troy men have invented a machine which, it is claimed, will practically revolutionize match-making. It has been operated to make 24,000 perfect matches in a minute, and its capacity is expected to reach 15,000,000 in ten hours.

Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism. Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water.

All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters: I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave.

Poverty and Suffering.

I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring.

I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I commenced using Hop Bitters, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost. I know it.

—The Skuzzy and Kamloops cricketers played at the latter place on the 18th, victory perching on the Kamloopers by two runs and seven wickets.

—The run of sockeyes in the Fraser is immense. All the canneries are doing well. Five boats on Thursday night brought in about 3000 fish.

—The indictment against Hibbs will be, it is said, the most formidable in point of length ever presented in a British Columbia court.

—The authorities have not yet made any effort to have the well at Beacon Hill cleaned out. It wants cleaning very badly, who will see to it?

—Mr. Joseph Menzies a well known citizen of Clinton, B. C., is in the city receiving medical treatment from Dr. Morrison.

—Is the Colonist preparing to "flop," or why does it not come out boldly and offer a reasonable excuse for the way the statutes have been delayed?

—The tin roof on the new Chinese theater was completed to-day. The contractors were Messrs. McLennan and McFeeley, and the work is most substantially done.

—C. D. Rand has resumed business and has taken an office on Bastion street over Dr. Chipp's where he will carry on business as a real estate broker and insurance agent.

—Mrs. Whitlaw received to-day from San Francisco a large assortment of hats in all the leading shades for the autumn season. They are great novelties, and should be examined by our lady readers.

—A handsome silver cup was presented by the Rock Bay club yesterday to Mr. T. H. Baker, who has officiated as umpire on many occasions. It bore the inscription, "To T. H. Baker, from the R. B. B. B. club, July 24th, 1885."

—The Olympian brought freight for: J M Fisk, Fell & Co, E G Prior, Hirst Bros, G L Simpson, Thos Earle, M R Robbins, Marvin & Tilton, John Whitfield, Mrs S Schuk, Wheeling Pottery Co, John Weiler, Geo Vipond.

—Messrs. Hamm and Marboeuf, on Tuesday morning next, will open in the Pemberton block, Yates street, the "Poodle Dog Rotisserie," when they will be prepared to cater for the tastes of the most fastidious. Due notice will be given.

—Mr. W. K. Ball has been after a San Francisco drummer who neglected to pay the required license. A summons to appear at the police court changed the spirit of the drummer's dream and he paid the $20 with alacrity.

—Messrs Summer & Goode will supply the labor on Sehl's new furniture factory. The building will be 57 brick, three stories high, and 62x88 feet in dimensions. It will occupy one of the most advantageous positions in the city.

—Word has been received from Mr. Van Horne stating that the new road around the shore of Lake Superior is in excellent condition, and far better than he anticipated. The road will, it is expected, be opened on the 1st of September for general freight and passenger business.

—The gross earnings of the Southern Pacific railway for the year are $23,261,000, being nearly $2,500,000 less than for 1883. The expenditures were $21,238,000, being over $1,000,000 greater than the previous year. The deficit included an unearned dividend paid amounting to $1,890,000.

—The O. R. & N. Co. are carrying wheat, barley, rye, oats, potatoes and farina in carload lots in quantities of 20,000 pounds, from Walla Walla to Portland, at 30 cents per cwt. Bran, shorts, middlings, 25 cents per cwt. In quantities of 2000 pounds or less, the rate on the former articles is 40 cents per cwt., and on the latter, 35 cents.

ST. JAMES CHURCH.

Consecration of the Edifice to the Service of God.

The new church in James Bay section of the city, the foundation stone of which was laid at the close of last year, was today consecrated to the service of Almighty God by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, assisted by his clergy and the church officials. A large congregation assembled to take part in the sacred services, the ladies largely predominating. Beautiful flowers decorated the communion table and windows. The usual form of consecration was observed. Bishop Hill was received at the entrance, where a petition, signed by the incumbent, wardens and committee, was read to him, praying that he might be pleased to consecrate the church. Proceeding down the aisle, followed by Bishop Paddock and the clergy, habited in surplices, impressive services were inaugurated by the reading of the 24th Psalm, alternately repeated by the Bishop and clergy. The Bishop are next presented with the deeds of conveyance and endowment, and after prayer the commissary read the sentence of consecration, which His Lordship signed and directed that it should be recorded in the Diocesan Register. This document named the edifice "St. James Church," and set it apart forever "for the worship of God." The incumbent then lead the ordinary service at morning prayer, which was followed by the communion service. Rt. Rev. J. A. Paddock, D. D., Bishop of Washington Territory, chosing his text from Micah, 5th chapter and 7th verse, preached a powerful sermon, in which the influence of the Church of God on a world crushed under sin was ably dwelt upon. The offertory was devoted to the building fund, as will also the collections at the morning and evening services tomorrow, when Bishop Paddock will again preach, in the morning at the Cathedral and in the evening at St. James. The newly consecrated church has been found a great convenience to the church-goers in that quarter of the city, and there is good ground for believing that the membership will largely increase under the ministrations of the present incumbent, Rev. Mr. Beanlands.

Around Queen Charlotte Islands.

The excursion of the steamer Princess Louise around Queen Charlotte Islands, starting on the 1st of August, will afford pleasure seekers a rare opportunity to see some of the most beautiful coast scenery in the world. Captain Irving will command the Louise, and his presence will be the best guarantee that every attention will be paid to the comfort of the excursionists. As only fifty passengers will be taken, application should be made without delay to secure accomodation. All the varied beauties of our coast—the deep inlets, towering mountains, placid waters, innumerable islands lying like emerald gems in a silver sea, and the glorious atmosphere—will be enjoyed, at a merely nominal cost by the fortunate excursionist. This is an opportunity that does not occur every day.

Harper's Monthly for August.

Messrs. J. B. Ferguson & Co., Government street, have laid on our table an advance copy of this favorite standard magazine. The number before us opens with an interesting sketch entitled "A Trip on the Ottawa," (illustrated.) The Parliamentary buildings are described, while the scenery along the upper Ottawa is very graphically sketched. Its other articles are equally interesting and instructive, especially so the chapters devoted to English and American railways, contrasting the two systems. As usual the Editor's easy chair, literary record, historical record, and drawer are especially instructive. Copies can be had at Messrs. Ferguson & Co.'s, who are likewise prepared to receive regular subscriptions for a stated term.

Excursionists to Yale.

The Rithet left at half past one to-day for Yale with the following, amongst others on board: Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Fee, of the Northern Pacific railway, and Mrs. Mitchell, Captain and Mrs. Irving, child and nurse, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ballen, child and nurse, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Miss Anderson, Mrs. Ness, Mr. and Mrs. J. Page, S. J. Pitts. These are all round trip passengers. The trip to Yale is a most enjoyable one, as the scenery is very grand along the Fraser. In these "dog days" we know of no better trip than that to Yale and return.

Arrested on a Capias.

Mrs. Gallick, whose husband was reported to have left the city, was arrested this afternoon on a capias by Deputy Sheriff Langley, at the instance of the Rock Bay Tannery Co., which obtained judgment against her in the Supreme Court yesterday. The levy is now in charge of Mr. Hutcheson, but she positively refuses to be coerced into paying the claim, about $180.

Plague-Stricken Plymouth!

Does a Similar Danger Threaten Everyone of Us?

How Public Attention is Directed to Personal Perils.

[Rochester (N.Y.) Correspondence Indianapolis Sentinel.]

"Judge," said a young lawyer to a very successful senior, "tell me the secret of your uniform success at the bar."

"Ah, young man, that secret is a life study, but I will give it to you on condition that you pay all my bills during this session of court."

"Agreed, sir," said the junior.

"Evidence, indisputable evidence."

At the end of the month the judge reminded the young man of his promise.

"I recall no such promise."

"Ah, but you made it."

"Your evidence, please?"

And the judge, not having any witnesses, lost a case for once!

The man who can produce indisputable evidence wins public favor. I had an interview yesterday with the most successful of American advertisers, whose advertising is most successful because always backed by evidence.

"What styles of advertising do you use?" I asked H. H. Warner, Esq.

"Display, reading matter and paragraphs of testimonials."

"Have you many testimonials?"

"In answer he showed me a large cabinet chock full. "We have enough to fill Boston, New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Philadelphia morning papers."

"Do you publish many of them?"

"Not a tithe. Wonderful as are those we do publish, we have thousands like them which we cannot use. 'Why not?' Let me tell you. 'Warner's safe cure' has probably been the most successful medicine for female disorders ever discovered. We have testimonials from ladies of the highest rank, but it would be indelicate to publish them. Likewise many statesmen, lawyers, clergymen, doctors of worldwide fame have been cured, but we can only refer to such persons in the most guarded terms, as we do in our reading articles."

"Are these reading articles successful?"

"When read they make such an impression that when the 'evil days' of ill health draw nigh they are remembered, and Warner's safe cure is used."

"No, sir, it is not necessary now, as at first, to do such constant and extensive advertising. A meritorious medicine sells itself after its merits are known. We present just evidence enough to disarm skeptics and to impress the merits of the remedies upon new consumers. We feel it to be our duty to do this. Hence, best to accomplish our mission of healing the sick, we have to use the reading-article style. People won't read plain testimonials."

"Yes, sir, thousands admit that had they not learned of Warner's safe cure through this clever style they would still be ailing and still impoverishing themselves in fees to unsuccessful 'practitioners.' It would do your soul good to read the letters of thanksgiving we get from mothers grateful for the perfect success which attends Warner's safe cure when used for children, and the surprised gratification with which men and women of older years and impaired vigor, testify to the youthful feelings restored to them by the same means."

"Are these good effects permanent?"

"Of all the cases of kidney, liver, urinary and female diseases we have cured, not two per cent of them report a return of their disorders. Who else can show such a record?"

"What is the secret of Warner's safe cure permanently reaching so many serious disorders?"

"I will explain by an illustration: The little town of Plymouth, Pa., has been plague-stricken for several months because its water supply was carelessly poisoned. The kidneys and liver are the sources of physical well-being. If polluted by disease, all the blood becomes poisoned and every organ is affected and this great danger threatens every one who neglects to treat himself promptly. I was nearly dead myself of extreme kidney disease, but what is now Warner's safe cure cured me, and I know it is the only remedy in the world that can cure such disorders, for I tried everything else in vain. Cured by it myself, I bought it and, from a sense of duty, presented it to the world. Only by restoring the kidneys and liver can disease leave the blood and the system."

A celebrated sanitarian physician once said to me. "The secret of the wonderful success of Warner's safe cure is that it is sovereign over all kidney, liver and urinary diseases, which primarily or secondarily make up the majority of human ailments. Like all great discoveries it is remarkably simple."

The house of H. H. Warner & Co., stands deservedly high in Rochester, and it is certainly matter of congratulation that merit has been recognized all over the world, and that this success has been unqualifiedly deserved.

PIN POINT.

Financial and Commercial Notes.

In New York and London, Canadian Pacific railway stock is still firm ranging from 45⅝ to 46. Hudson Bay shares, latest quotations, were £16 10s. Sterling exchange in New York wasquoted: Sixty days, 4.84¼@4.84½; demand, 4.85¾@4.86; cables, 4.86@4.86⅛; Commercial bills, 4.82@4.83; British Columbia, 1894, 6 p. c. 112; July, 1897 6 p.c. 122; Bank of British Columbia 23½; new iss. 2 p. m. 11; Bank of British North America 57.

In Montreal and Toronto the wholesale markets show no great activity. The volume of trade continues restricted, with orders chiefly for small parcels. There is a growing feeling, however, that the worst is over, and with an abundant harvest, more activity is expected in the autumn. Prices generally are firm, and an advance in liquors and tobaccos is reported, owing to the increased duties. Provisions are dull, as well as breadstuffs, but the latter are a trifle firmer at the close, owing to rumored complications between England and Russia. Prices of wheat, however, will have to advance considerably in Britain before any shipments can be made from here. Payments generally are slow.

Flour in Toronto, was quoted at $3 80 @$4. Wheat 55@90c per bushel, according to grade. Oats 34 to 40c per bushel. Peas 65c. Beef 10 to 14c for choice steaks; mutton 12 to 13c; pork 10 to 11c. Butter, choice creamery, 14 to 18c. Eggs, 12 to 14c. Spring chickens, pair, 50c. Potatoes, per bag 40c. Fruit was offering in great abundance and prices incredibly cheap. Imported fruit was held high. In Toronto, California pears were $5 to $5 50 per box; California plums, $3 50 per box; California peaches, $3 50 per box; California apricots, $3 50 to $4 per box.

The butter market in Elgin, Ill., on the 14th, was a fraction lower than last week. All sales made were at 17¼c for extra creamery. The offerings were in excess of the demand, as cold storage buyers were not on the market. Cheese dull, with few sales; skims at 3½c; creams at 6c@7c. The sales were 20,280 lbs. @ 17½c.

Families requiring sugar for preserving fruits, &c., can obtain it at wholesale prices at FELL & Co.'s, Fort street.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

[While the columns of THE TIMES are open for the discussion of questions of public interest, to correspondents, it must be understood that it does not necessarily endorse, nor coincide with, the sentiments expressed by writers in this column.]

The Hon. Attorney-General and his Constituents.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—It is an acknowledged fact that votes have been bought and sold ever since the most primitive elections were held. At no time up to the present day has this practice been successfully banished in the selection of rulers. The methods adopted have differed according to the age and people who may have practiced the purchasable vote principle. In our district some are wicked enough to say that doubtful men have been convinced of the error of their thoughts by the Hon. A. E. B. Davie, in the following manner: The doubtful voter is asked if he needs a road, and the answer naturally is yes; then the thing is done. For instance, Mr. P. Grinder gets a road from his house to where he gets firewood, at a cost of $1200; Mr. Moses Pigeon, a road to his hay field, $1200; Mr. Pierre Colin, a road to his swamp, where he has hay cut, $100; Young Bowe and Young Meason have hay flats, and a similar amount will be expended on their behalf. The flats are not worth half what the road will cost, and never can be. This is certainly the cruelest way of squandering the taxpayers' money which has yet been devised. If the Honorable Attorney-General intends to convince a sufficient number of the free and enlightened voters of this district to give him a majority at next election, I pity Honest John in his endeavors to show the point to the disaffected of the New Westminster district, as the draft on the surplus fund to place the Lillooet seat on a firm pedestal will be so heavy that the old veteran wire puller of the Fraser will not have sufficient left to gravel his highway and bridge the river of discontent, so that he may again ride to a seat in the cabinet. Notwithstanding the efforts of the government to make themselves "solid" with the electors I am much mistaken if they will again trust the present clique with the reins of power; as they are too intelligent to be put off with fair promises, and altogether too independent to be bought like sheep in the shambles. The public have audited the account between themselves and the government. The balance is cast, and it has been found that the ministers, in regard to their duty, are heavy defaulters. The verdict of popular opinion is that they shall be hurled from the places of trust which they have so long usurped to the prison of seclusion, from which, if they never had emerged, they might have enjoyed the reputation of being moderably respectable members of society.

A LILLOOET VOTER.

LILLOOET, July 18.

Will the Colonist Please Explain.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—My attention has been directed to a paragraph which appeared in the Colonist of the 8th inst., complimentary to a local architect. Referring to the Colorado State buildings the Colonist asserted that the plans and specifications of Mr. C. E. Apponyi had been accepted by the authorities of that State. I fear the Colonist has been misinformed, as I have the best possible reason for knowing that up to the 20th inst. no award had been made.

ARGUS EYE.

Victoria, July 25th, 1885.

Base Ball Match.

A large number of spectators assembled on Beacon Hill yesterday afternoon to witness the game of base ball played between the James Bay and Rock Bay clubs. The game was called at 15 minutes past 4 p. m., with the Rock Bays to the bat, who put together 3 runs in the first and 7 in the second innings, through good batting. Here, however, the James Bays settled down to work and played in splendid form until the first half of the ninth innings, when an accident to the catcher, Master A. Williams, (who had played a fine game till then,) resulted in his being obliged to leave the game. The score then stood 17 to 13 in favor of the James Bays. Substitute Bradley was then taken on, playing center field, with F. Wolfenden as catcher, and the game proceeded, but the loss of Williams from behind the bat, and through errors in throwing to bases, the Rock Bays put together 9 runs in their last innings, with a whitewash for their opponents, thus placing them ahead by 5 runs and winning the game, which was well contested from the start to the finish, and afforded much amusement to the spectators. The playing of the James Bays in the 5th, 6th and 7th innings was very good, they giving their opponents 3 whitewashes in succession. The James Bays wanted to play a third game, but the Rock Bays said that as their arrangements were to play two games, they declined playing a third, and so the matter was dropped for the present. The following is the score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
James Bay	0	3	1	4	2	3	3	1	0	—17
Rock Bay	3	7	0	2	0	0	0	1	9	—22

Mr. Tunstall, Government Agent has selected a site about 200 yards east of Mr. Mara's residence, for the new Court House at Kamloops. The site chosen is not far from the present business centre, being just 300 yards from the post and telegraph offices. The entire building has a frontage of 68 feet, the main building is 40x37, two stories high. On the ground floor there are two commodious jury rooms, judges' room and office. The court room will take the whole of the upper flat, and will be 39x36 in the clear. The private dwelling is 28x28, one story, and contains sitting room, two bed rooms and kitchen. The plan shows a neat building and will be a credit to the town.
